Instructions: For each question, there will be a story and a sentence that describes the main character's initial belief. After the story, an "event" happens. The main character DOES NOT have full knowledge about the "event" and only encounters a "percept cue", which is derived from the event. Based on the "percept cue", determine whether the main character will change their belief.

Story: Odette is a street performer in a bustling city in France. She wants to entertain the passing crowd by playing her accordion. Odette sees that her accordion is in working condition.

Main Character Odette's initial belief: She believes that her accordion is functioning properly.

Event: However, a mischievous child nearby secretly loosened the straps, making it difficult for her to play.

Percept cue: The accordion feels unstable in Odette's hands, the straps slipping and sliding against her shoulders, forcing her to grip the instrument tighter to keep it from falling.

Q1 After the event happened, based on the main character Odette's perception of the event, is the following statement about Odette's belief True or False:

Statement: She believes that her accordion is functioning properly.

Choose the most appropriate answer (True/False):

Q2 After the event happened, based on the main character Odette's perception of the event, which of the following statements best describes Odette's new belief?

Statement: She believes that her accordion is functioning properly.

Choose the most appropriate answer (choose one only):

Choice A. "Odette believes her accordion is in working condition."

Choice B. "Odette believes her accordion has loosened straps."

Choice C. "Odette believes her accordion needs tuning."
